

Save on storage; ensure records can be retrieved

According to Gartner, rationalising storage is a quick win that gets you annual total cost saving of up to 35%.*

Client Challenge

Many organisations have legal and regulatory obligations concerning data retention and discovery. Compliance with these obligations is essential.

ICT storage requirements are growing exponentially, with corresponding increases in both capital costs and ongoing support and maintenance. Reducing these costs is an imperative.

Fujitsu's Solution

Fujitsu can help your organisation address these challenges through our Data Archiving Assessment Service. This service provides an analysis of data – including email – stored electronically across your enterprise. It provides a report designed to help you in the archiving decision process.

We can also help you define clear and unambiguous policies around data retention, archiving, and compliance.

Benefits

Our Data Archiving Assessment Service will give your organisation a clear view on data it stores and present options on the best way to move forward to a full archiving solution.

Based on engagement with your main stakeholders, and on our own experience, we will determine whether or not cost reductions are achievable for your organisation. The findings of the service will form a basis for ensuring compliance with all necessary legal and regulatory provisions.

Our Approach

With your assistance, the assessment delivers, in 4 – 6 weeks elapsed (effort may be less), an assessment of your organisation's data management and a set of pragmatic recommendations based on your requirements and context. You will get clarity on what needs to be done, what is involved and recommendations on how to begin.

Our Expertise

Fujitsu has delivered data archiving projects globally, and in Ireland to prominent clients including Dublin City Council. Project activities cover design, development, implementation, compliance, training and support.
